WE ARE

As the science and knowledge service of the European Commission, the Joint Research Centre provides independent, evidence-based knowledge and science, supporting EU policies to positively impact society. We provide anticipatory capacity, solid expertise and ability to propose and implement interdisciplinary research. The activities are carried out in collaboration with relevant Commission Services, national and international organisations and stakeholders. At the JRC we organise our work in portfolios which are the main building blocks of our multi-annual work programmes. The JRC is located in five Member States (Belgium, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Spain). More information about the JRC and its portfolios can be found at: https://joint-research-centre.ec.europa.eu/index\_en

The JRC's Directorate for Health and Food (Dir F) provides independent, evidence-based knowledge and science in support of EU policies that affect fundamental aspects of the lives of every citizen. Within the Systems Toxicology Unit (F.3), which incorporates the European Union Reference Laboratory for alternatives to animal testing (EURL ECVAM), we develop, evaluate and promote novel methods and approaches for the regulatory safety assessment of chemicals used in a variety of sectors. Our goal is to protect human health and the environment, minimise animal testing, and contribute to an innovative and competitive economy. The unit supports a broad range of sectors and policy areas including industrial and household chemicals, pharmaceuticals, food and feed, plant protection products, endocrine disrupters, chemical mixtures, zero-pollution, biotechnology and biodiversity.

A focus of our work is the validation/qualification of in vitro (bio)technologies, including engineered tissues, induced pluripotent stem cells and organ-on-chip devices, to support their uptake in research and testing. Recently our activities have expanded to consider new biotechnology-based tools for the development and clinical application of biological-based medicines and Advanced Therapy Medicinal Products (ATMPs). We actively collaborate with international partners and stakeholders, including industry, academia, and regulatory agencies, to promote the development and adoption of in vitro methods and new approach methodologies (NAMs). We favour integrated and holistic approaches that address policy challenges associated with a complex and changing world to better serve society.

The post is located in Ispra.
